OVER THE FENCEPOST

Your Polling Place May Have Changed

As we approach the general election on November 8, the County's Communications department has asked us to help spread the word of the changes to district boundaries and polling places due to redistricting.

New voter cards were mailed to all registered voters in Prince William County in August. The new voter cards provide the updated information including election district and polling place locations. Another way you can determine your election district and polling place is through www.pwcgov.org. An interactive tool will instantly give the correct election district and polling place location based on the address you supply.

To find out if you are currently registered to vote and what will be on the ballot in your polling place, visit www.sbe.virginia.gov/. For more information, contact Voter Registration at (703)792-6470 or e-mail voterinquiry@pwcgov.org.

ATTENTION VOTERS!

Your voting location may have changed. Visit www.pwcgov.org, or scan here with your smartphone!

Job Growth Soars in PWC

According to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics, as the national job growth increased 1.3 percent, Prince William County experienced job growth of 4.3 percent from March 2010 to March 2011. Prince William County now ranks #1 in job growth for the Commonwealth of Virginia and #3 in job growth for the nation when compared to the other 322 large US counties.

As businesses continue to rely on the strength of the Northern Virginia labor market and the strategic location near Washington, DC, new jobs were created throughout the region despite a down economy. Prince William County remains focused on creating a business-friendly environment to ensure further job growth when the economy rebounds.

For more information on labor statistics, visit www.bls.gov. To review the data, visit:

Americans in Wartime Museum Breaks Ground

On Tuesday, October 26, the Prince William Board of County Supervisors broke ground on the planned Americans in Wartime Museum, which will be located on a 70-acre site in eastern Prince William County. The national museum will be located at the intersection of Interstate 95 and Dale Boulevard and is expected to open on Veterans Day 2014. The $100 million project is expected to attract more than 300,000 visitors each year and add 50 new jobs.

The Americans in Wartime Museum will tell the stories of all branches of the military and those who remained on the home front from World War I to the present. Exhibits and activities will include operational armor and aircraft, living history reenactments, educational programs and military artifacts.

The Americans in Wartime Museum is a partnership between Prince William County, the United States Congress, the Commonwealth of Virginia and private donors. It joins the National Museum of the Marine Corps, Marine Corps Base Quantico, Manassas National Battlefield Park, and many other military and historical attractions located throughout Prince William County. For information about the museum, visit <http://www.nmaw.org/>.

Sneak Peak of New County Website

The County is currently in the process of redesigning its website. As the site continues to be developed, the Communications and Information Technology departments would like for you to take a few minutes to check it out and let them know what you think.

Do you like the menu structure, the look of the site, the functionality? With your feedback and input, the site can be improved to better meet the needs of the County's customers.

To access the test page of the new site, visit <http://beta.pwcgov.org/Pages/default.aspx#>. This is a beta site only, so please remember to visit www.pwcgov.org in order to access the most current information.

Please note that the County's Web address, www.pwcgov.org, will not change.

County Offices Closed for Holiday

In observance of the Veterans Day holiday, all Prince William County government offices will be closed on Friday, November 11th. County offices will re-open at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, November 14th.

All Prince William County government offices will also be closed on Thursday, November 24, and Friday, November 25th in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. County offices will re-open at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, November 28th.

Traffic Direction at Religious Institutions

My office routinely receives calls about traffic direction at religious institutions, more specifically how the service is funded, so I asked the Police Department to share information about the service:

You have probably seen police officers regularly directing traffic at locations such as churches, sports events and other locations of a similar nature. You might wonder, "who pays for that?" The general answer is, they do. While the Police Department is able to accommodate some special events, most of the regularly-occurring traffic control and event security needs are filled using off-duty officers, paid for by the requesting organization. The same is true in certain subdivisions and shopping centers that desire a more dedicated police presence.

The use of off-duty officers is strictly regulated by the Police Department, and the officers must abide by all Department regulations when doing so.

County Continues to be “Certified Crime Prevention Community”

Eleven years ago, Prince William became the first county in Virginia to earn the “Certified Crime Prevention Community” designation under a state program that publicly recognizes and certifies localities that have implemented a defined set of community safety strategies. On Tuesday, October 4, the Board of County Supervisors accepted the County’s recertification as a Certified Crime Prevention Community, as identified by Virginia’s Department of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS).

The last recertification process in 2008 was handled by the Police Department’s Crime Prevention Unit, and members of the Unit were rewarded for their hard work by being notified that their application was to be used as a model for the state’s fledgling recertification process.

To obtain recertification, Crime Prevention Unit members had to:

- Research and collate data to fit the goals and objectives originally submitted in 2001, and develop new measures and goals that were measurable.
- Gather input from the Crime Prevention Unit, Juvenile Bureau, the Public Information Office, Accreditation, Crime Analysis, the Prince William County Public Schools’ Risk Management Office, the Neighborhood Services Division of the Department of Public Works, and the Victim/Witness Unit of the Office of the Commonwealth’s Attorney.

The purpose of this program is to reduce the fear of crime through the development and implementation of community safety plans that target youth violence, gang activity and drug involvement. To obtain certification, Prince William County had to meet 12 mandatory core community safety elements or strategies and a minimum of seven approved optional elements set forth by DCJS. The core strategies in Prince William County include:

1. The Prince William Crime Prevention Council, a non-profit citizen group dedicated to the promotion of community safety through education, community events and regular meetings.
2. Certified Crime Prevention Specialists employed by the Prince William County Police Department.
3. A nationally recognized Neighborhood Watch program, which was established in 1979.
4. A formal community policing program to ensure police response to quality-of-life issues.

The Department’s optional strategies include:

1. The McGruff House program, administered by the Office of the Commonwealth’s Attorney, which provides shelter for children in emergency situations.
2. The Crime Solvers program, administered by the Police Department’s Public Information Office.
3. School-based prevention programs.

For more information on the recertification, please contact the Police Department’s Crime Prevention Unit at (703)792-7270.

After the Earthquake...is Your Chimney Safe?

Was your chimney damaged in the August earthquake? As cold weather approaches, it is important to find out before you use your stove or fireplace, your life could depend on it.

Broken or cracked chimneys can let heat, smoke and toxic gasses escape into your home, and your home could catch fire. You could breathe in carbon monoxide, a deadly, invisible, odorless gas created when things burn. Some damage is obvious, some is hidden.

Here’s what to look for:

- Check to see if bricks have fallen or the chimney is leaning.
- Look for shiny areas on your metal chimney pipe. This means the chimney moved during the earthquake.
- Look for cracks at joints: where the chimney connects to the firebox, at the roofline, and in the attic.
- Look to see if there are metal ties that hold the chimney to the house. If there aren’t any, your chimney is at greater risk.
- Check for debris in the firebox.
- Use a screwdriver to check the mortar between the bricks or stones. If it crumbles when you pick at it, the chimney may be a hazard.

Deciding whether a chimney has sustained earthquake damage is not always easy. When in doubt, consult a licensed engineer or contractor. For the name of a qualified inspector, contact your insurance or mortgage company.

Neuter Commuter Reaches 1,000

The Prince William SPCA recently announced that in October they transported their 1,000th pet on the Neuter Commuter. The program began back in July 2009 with 12 pets. In October 2011, 66 pets were transported. Appreciation goes out to the many volunteers who make this program possible and they look forward to reaching their next goal of 2,000.

The Prince William SPCA offers the only low-cost spay/neuter program in the county. To register for the program, visit <http://www.formstack.com/forms/pwspca-neuter-commuter>.

Medicare Part D Open Enrollment

The open enrollment period for Medicare Part D prescription drug plans started on October 15, and ends on December 7. For information or assistance enrolling in Medicare Part D, Medicare recipients of any age can call Rosemary Walker, Medicare Counselor, at (703)792-4156.

More about Medicare Part D (Information provided by the US Department of Health and Human Services)

Medicare offers prescription drug coverage to everyone with Medicare. If you decide not to join a Medicare drug plan when you're first eligible, and you don't have other creditable prescription drug coverage, or you don't get Extra Help, you'll likely pay a late enrollment penalty.

To get Medicare prescription drug coverage, you must join a plan run by an insurance company or other private company approved by Medicare. Each plan can vary in cost and drugs covered.

There are two ways to get Medicare prescription drug coverage:

- Medicare Prescription Drug Plans. These plans (sometimes called "PDPs") add drug coverage to Original Medicare, some Medicare Cost Plans, some Medicare Private Fee-for-Service (PFFS) Plans, and Medicare Medical Savings Account (MSA) Plans.
- Medicare Advantage Plans (like an HMO or PPO) or other Medicare health plans that offer Medicare prescription drug coverage. You get all of your Part A and Part B coverage, and prescription drug coverage (Part D), through these plans. Medicare Advantage Plans with prescription drug coverage are sometimes called "MA-PDs." You must have Part A and Part B to join a Medicare Advantage Plan.

Both types of plans are called "Medicare drug plans." In either case, you must live in the service area of the Medicare drug plan you want to join.

When Can You Join a Medicare Drug Plan?

- Between October 15 – December 7, anyone can join, switch, or drop a Medicare drug plan. The change will take effect on January 1 as long as the plan gets your request by December 7.
- When you're first eligible for Medicare, you can join during the 7-month period that begins 3 months before the month you turn 65, includes the month you turn 65, and ends 3 months after the month you turn 65.
- If you get Medicare due to a disability, you can join during the 7-month period that begins 3 months before your 25th month of disability, includes your 25th month of disability, and ends 3 months after your 25th month of disability. You'll have another chance to join that starts 3 months before the month you turn 65 ends 3 months after the month you turn 65.
- If you get Extra Help, you can join, switch or drop a Medicare drug plan anytime.

Once you choose a Medicare drug plan, you may be able to join by:

- Enrolling on the plan's Web site or on www.medicare.gov.
- Completing a paper application
- Calling the plan
- Calling 1-800-MEDICARE

When you join a Medicare drug plan, you'll give your Medicare number and the date your Part A and/or Part B coverage started. This information is on your Medicare card.

15 Children Honored for “Making the Right Call”

Fifteen boys and girls were honored by the Prince William County Office of Public Safety Communications on Saturday, October 8, during a “Make the Right Call” presentation. The children, who were between the ages of 8 and 13 at the time of the incidents, all knew to call 9-1-1 in an emergency, they all remained calm throughout events, and all are credited with helping out during medical emergencies.

- Kristen Kang called 9-1-1 in June 2010 and told the call-taker that an adult family member had collapsed. Kristen, 12, remained calm and listened to the instructions of the emergency medical dispatch, making sure the door to the house was open for emergency responders.
- Katie Danford called 9-1-1 in July 2010 and told the call-taker that an adult family member reported having terrible headaches after just being released from the hospital. Katie, nine, handled herself extremely well for her age, impressing 9-1-1 call takers with her professionalism.
- Tylon Evans called 9-1-1 on two occasions in August 2010 because an adult family member was unconscious. Tylon, nine, knew what to do and followed all the pre-arrival instructions given to him. He also took care of a younger sibling during these events until a relative and the medical crew arrived on the scene.
- Christian Cordero called 9-1-1 in September 2010 and reported that an adult family member was unconscious. Christian, 10, listened to instructions from the call-taker and took care of a younger sibling until the medical crew arrived.
- Mark Colon-Gonzalez called 9-1-1 in October 2010 to report that he found an adult family member unconscious when he came home from school. Mark, who was 11 years old at the time, remained calm and his quick actions “played an important role in creating a positive outcome” for the family member, according to PSCC personnel who nominated him.
- Tracey Duffour-Donkor called 9-1-1 in November 2010 to report that an adult family member had fallen from the bed and was acting disoriented. Tracey, 11, remained calm and kept the call-taker informed of everything that was happening with the adult until help could arrive.
- Joshua Jones called 9-1-1 in November 2010 to report that an adult family member was suffering terrible back spasms and pain. Joshua, 11, followed all the pre-arrival instructions and did not panic, according to the call-taker, despite the fact that the adult was “screaming in pain in the background.”
- Kaylle Sanchez called 9-1-1 in March 2011 to report that an older sibling was unconscious. An adult family member was tending to the fallen individual and asked Kaylle, 11, to call 9-1-1. She followed all the pre-arrival instructions, translating on the spot so that the family could assist in helping the individual until emergency responders could arrive.
- Rickoya Jones called 9-1-1 in June 2011 to report that an adult family member was suffering chest pains. The call taker noted that Rickoya, eight, was cool, calm and collected; listening to all of the instructions and making sure the door was unlocked for Fire and EMS units.
- Justin Elkins called 9-1-1 in April 2011 and in July 2011 to report that an adult family member was very ill with respiratory problems. Justin, nine at the time, remained calm both times and was able to provide all the required information despite being “very scared and concerned” for the family member.
- Matthew Pritchert called 9-1-1 in August 2011 after an adult family member fell while outdoors and was injured. Matthew, 13, who has special needs, “did a wonderful job” helping the fallen adult, following all directions from the call-taker and dressing the adult’s wounds until help could arrive. He remained calm throughout the incident.
- Faith Alderman called 9-1-1 in August 2011 to report that an adult family member was experiencing a possible stroke. Faith, 11, remained very calm, provided all required information and followed all directions. “She also told the call-taker that they did not need to stay on the phone with her, and that she would be OK until medical units arrived,” the nominee noted.
- A’Nesti Belgrave called 9-1-1 to report that an adult was experiencing chest pains. A’Nesti, nine, followed the pre-arrival instructions until help could arrive.
- Clarissa Hopkins called 9-1-1 in September 2011 because an adult with a history of medical problems was having trouble breathing. Clarissa, 10, followed all the pre-arrival instructions until help arrived, and remained calm throughout the incident.
- Isabella Reprieto called 9-1-1 in September 2011 to report that an adult family member was in premature labor. Isabella, 10, remained on the phone with call-takers and followed all instructions, including making sure the door was unlocked. “She told us where her mother was and provided her mother’s information and completed other tasks that the crew had given her to do,” wrote one of the EMS technicians who responded to the call. “She remained cool, calm and collected, accompanying the adult to the hospital where her little sister was born in the back of the medic unit just outside the hospital’s doors.”

The “Make the Right Call” program shows the importance of knowing how to properly use 9-1-1 when emergency help is needed. Congratulations to the boys and girls for properly using 9-1-1 to help save lives!

Police Warn Against Drunk Driving

Halloween has become a dangerous and deadly time of year due to a jump in drunk driving. More than 40 percent of the nation's traffic fatalities that occur on Halloween night are tied to alcohol abuse. To combat this, the Prince William County Police Department urges all Halloween party-goers to designate a sober driver. In addition, police remind all motorists to wear a safety belt as the best defense against an impaired driver.

The Prince William County Police Department is joining with other national, state and local highway safety officials this season to promote the designated driver message before the Halloween parties begin. Follow these simple reminders for a safer Halloween weekend:

- Be responsible and never drive impaired.
- If you plan to drink, choose your sober driver before going out.
- Once impaired, use mass transit, call a cab or ask a sober friend to get you home. This year, SoberRide is offering free taxi rides to impaired persons (up to a $30 fare) from 10:00 p.m. on Saturday, October 29, to 6:00 a.m. on Sunday, October 30. Call 1-800-200-TAXI to arrange for a ride.
- If all else fails, just stay where you are and sleep it off.
- Always buckle up – it's still your best defense against an impaired driver.
- If you are hosting a Halloween party, make sure all of your guests leave with a sober driver.

Agency on Aging Asks for Help to Transport Veteran

The Prince William Area Agency on Aging is working with a veteran who is having knee replacement surgery and requires transportation to appointments in the District of Columbia. His automobile insurance will cover any driver the he designates. The individual is willing to pay someone for transportation and will negotiate a rate. The driver will also need to provide wheelchair assistance.

If you or anyone you know is willing to help, please contact Barbara Diehl via email at bdiehl@pwcgov.org or call (703)792-7175.

Santa's Old Bridge Parade is Coming to Town

Themed "Holidays Around the World", the parade is scheduled to start at 10:00 a.m. in the vicinity of Mohican Road and Lake Ridge Middle School and then continue west along Old Bridge Road to Smoketown Road. I hope to see you and your family there!

If you wish to be a participant in the parade, there is still time to register. The deadline for entry is Thursday, November 10.

Prescription Drug Take-Back Day

Do you have bottles of prescription drugs that have expired or that you no longer need to take? You may be aware that you should not throw them in the trash, flush them down the toilet, dump them down the sink or the garbage disposal, or leave them sitting in a cabinet or medicine chest. So what do you do with them?

On Saturday, October 29, the Police Department will join with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) to provide you with a safe and legal way to dispose of these unwanted medications. Simply bring your prescription drugs to the collection sites at Manassas Mall and Potomac Mills Mall from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The service is free and anonymous, no questions asked.

This nationwide prescription drug "Take-Back" initiative seeks to prevent pill abuse and theft. During this initiative, over-the-counter and prescription solid dosage medications (i.e. tablets and capsules) will be accepted. Intravenous solutions, injectables, and needles will not be accepted. Illicit substances, such as marijuana or methamphetamine, will also not be accepted during National Take-Back Day. Last April, 557 pounds of expired prescription drugs and other medicines were collected in Prince William County during the DEA's spring "Take-Back" initiative.

For more information on this program, including updates on the Police Department collection sites, visit http://www.deadiversion.usdoj.gov/drug\_disposal/takeback/index.html. You can enter your ZIP code to find the collection site nearest you. You may also call (703)792-7270.
